NORTHERN TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1888.

Departed.

A pulseless form with closed eyes lies in the Episcopal parsonage awaiting burial, but the life of Rev. Jas. H. Magoffin in rich and beautiful functions is still advancing. Restful, peaceful "sleep" came to our brother and friend this morning shortly after six. The wound occasioned by a nail being driven through the ball of the left thumb on Oct 13th produced erysipelas. Intense physical pain has been born with Christ-like patience. From the first he said his hour had come and freely spoke of his release. Several surgical operations were made, all that medical skill and tender affection was capable of, was done. The watchers dressed the arm about six when he seemed full of cheerful life. In a few moments medicine was taken to his body—the mortal change had come—the physical that had wrought so nobly was dead—but the fresh strong spirit, relieved of care, toil, darkness and evil bathed in the supreme fountain of life. To him there is no loss, horror, entombment, corruption, ghostly waiting in a lower world or half existence—all is life—eternal life.

In Schenectady, New York, Jan. 16th, 1821 he first saw light. He was educated in Union College. He taught school for over 30 years in New York, Wisconsin and Ill. His religious life was shaped by the Presbyterian church until 20 years ago, when he identified himself with the Episcopal church. About 15 years ago he was ordained to the Episcopal ministry, since, he has not been without a parish, having labored in Ill., Wisconsin, Dakota, Iowa and Michigan. He was married to Miss E. A. Foster, of Concord, New Hampshire, who survives over her unspokeable loss. Two children are in the eternal life with the father, while the son F. H., and daughter, Miss Carrie M., are here to weep with the mother and wife.

When a young man Jas. H. Magoffin was made a Free Mason, also an Odd Fellow, and in both orders he was advanced. In Sept. 1882 he became Rector of the heroic church now left without an under shepherd, and will be so true to the widow and children. Free Masons and Odd Fellows, are always true with sweet, noiseless sympathy that always helps. Cheboygan was never more shocked over the final departure of any one, for a truer man, christian, and worker, never was among us. He was universally respected and greatly beloved.

"But souls that of his own good life partake, He loves as his own self: dear as his eye They are to him; He'll never them forsake; When they shall die, then God Himself shall die; They LIVE, they LIVE IN BLESSED ETERNITY."

The funeral services proper will be held on Tuesday at Ann Arbor to which place the remains will be taken Monday On to-morrow at 2 p. m. at the Episcopal church funeral services will be held if a clergyman of the Episcopal order can be secured; if not, brief religious services will be held at the parsonage at the same hour.

The concert to be given under the auspices of the Aftermath Society, on Tuesday evening next, at the Opera House, promises to be a rare treat to our music loving people. Below we give the programme:
